This project grew from previous research conducted by the Local Food Project Team in 2004, consisting of Gary Davis, Michael DiRamio, Elizabeth Murphy Ellis, Kana Horigome, Leah A. Katz and Adam Martin-Schwarze. We owe many thanks to one member in particular, Michael DiRamio, whose vision and dedication to bettering the local food system inspired our team along the way. As a member of the Food System Economic Partnership (FSEP), we had many opportunities to collaborate with Michael and to benefit from his wisdom and experience.

We would also like to thank Mike Score, Chair of the FSEP Leadership Team, and the other Leadership Team members for their support, collaboration, and guidance over the last year. We have enjoyed working with and getting to know many of them through our work with FSEP committees. Their vision for the food system in southeastern Michigan inspires us all. We hope that this work will support their mission and objectives as they forge new paths, partnerships and opportunities within the region.

To our advisor, Dr. Ivette Perfecto, we owe many thanks. Her steady guidance and enthusiastic support throughout were crucial to our completion of the project. Moreover, Dr. Perfecto's deep knowledge of food systems and commitment to engaged scholarship for social change in Michigan and around the world girded us a sense of purpose that far exceeded the scope of the project.

We must also recognize the work of Ken Anderson as a charter member of our project team and for his graphic design work. Ken's enthusiasm and spirit helped to create the vision for the project, and his dependability and commitment helped to carry it through to the final stages. Ken's masterful design work ensured that our final products were professional and visually impressive.

We owe a debt of gratitude to Lingling Zhang, our University of Michigan statistics consultant, without whom our project would not have the quantitative strength and credibility.

Our research and the dissemination of our findings have been made possible by funding and/or in-kind support from the Education Foundation of America, the University of Michigan's School of Natural Resources and Environment, the Food System Economic Partnership, and Michigan State University's Project GREEN program. A special thank you to Rodger Bower, Chef at Ann Arbor's most prized local food establishment, Zingerman's Deli, for their generous donations of food.
